Planting the first post of the Canadian Highway, 1912

Due to the high volume of applications we receive each year, only candidates selected for an interview will be notified.

Public History welcomes job applicants from a wide variety of academic and professional backgrounds. We offer a broad compensation package which includes a group RRSP plan; sick leave and family leave allowances; an employee health plan; and alternative and flexible work schedules. Our employees enjoy interesting and challenging work and staff events which involve both learning and recreation.

All our staff are given training, mentoring and on-going career development opportunities. We foster a collaborative, team-based work environment, providing our employees with opportunities to refine their skills. In training and developing our staff, we rely on an extensive body of corporate knowledge developed during our more than ten years of project work.

To apply for a job at Public History, please complete an application for employment and send it by e-mail at jobs@publichistory.ca, with a résumé and a non-confidential writing sample of prose. Application materials can also be sent by fax or mail to our office.

Important note: To submit a completed job application by e-mail requires the full version of Adobe Acrobat.
